

AOS – SCHEDULING OBSERVATIONS

Animal activity will vary during the day. Animals may be quite active in the early morning hours, with less activity exhibited during the heat of the day. Establishing a consistent daily time for animal observations will avoid these normal variations. Ideally, the animals would be observed several times daily, but at least once daily.